

Safety Training for Supervisors

How to reduce production costs

One way to do this is to prevent workplace injuries. Supervisors are often in the position to promote safety through training, motivation, and enforcement.

Understand the importance of safety

It is essential that supervisors understand the role of safety in the production of quality goods and services. Failure to do so can lead to increased costs through higher insurance premiums, damaged goods and machinery, lost production time, and a shortage of skilled employees

Attendees will learn to:

- Understand the role of supervision, leadership, and safety
- Integrate safety into their daily management process
- Improve safety by gaining the cooperation and active participation of employees
- Identify and recognize unsafe conditions and behaviors

This seminar will help supervisors and managers understand the role they play in workplace safety. We will look at causes of accidents, accident investigations, corrective strategies, and improving the cooperation of employees. You will learn about methods that can make you a better, and safer supervisor.

Who should attend?

- Business Owners
- Maintenance Supervisors
- Safety Managers
- Frontline Managers and Supervisors

State Fund speakers:

Pedro Acero, Loss Control Consultant
Bob Edwards, Loss Control Consultant

September 15, 2011

SeaCrest Oceanfront Hotel
2241 Price Street
Pismo Beach, CA 93449

English session:

8:30 am to 11:00 am

Registration at 8:00 am*

*Complimentary continental breakfast

Spanish session:

1:30 pm to 4:00 pm

Registration at 1:00 pm*

*Refreshments

To register, e-mail Bob Edwards with the below required information at rtedwards@scif.com or fax to Bob (805) 278-5134 or call Bob (805) 509-6189; or register online at www.statefundca.com.

Company:

Phone No.:

Policy No.:

E-mail Address:

Name of Attendee(s):

A FREE SEMINAR

Supervisors need to understand the importance of safety in the workplace. They are in a position to promote, motivate and enforce safety. Preventing injuries can reduce production costs. Recognizing hazards at your jobsite can prevent serious injuries and costly claims. Yet hazard recognition is valuable only when corrective action is taken. Attend this seminar and learn the role of supervision, leadership and safety.

Who should attend:

- Business Owners
- Safety Managers
- Maintenance Supervisors
- Foremen
- Superintendents

State Fund
Attn.: Bob Edwards, Loss Control
P. O. Box 51410
Oxnard, CA 93031

RETURN SERVICE REQUESTED

ATTENTION: SAFETY MANAGER